McADOO 423 $\frac{1}{2}$ SMITH 320 $\frac{1}{2}$

RALSTON 94

LEADER LOSES NEARLY ONE HUNDRED VOTES FROM HIGH MARK

INDIANA GOVERNOR GETS MANY VOTES FROM THE SOUTH

(By United Press)
Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3, 3:15 P. M.—Having carefully nursed his charge through 51 ballots in the convention Tom Taggart began to come out with Senator Ralston this afternoon as the compromise upon whom the democrats can agree for presidential nominee.

Starting with 30 votes from Indiana on the first ballot, Ralston held at that mark, except for one or two outside ballots that fell to him, through two days and nights of the convention. Then, on the 49th ballot today, Mississippi switched to him with 20 votes. On the 52nd Missouri crashed through with 36 and the Ralston vote mounted to 93. This put him in third position in the battle of ballots.

Instead of increasing his strength, McAdoo fell away during the day's struggle and on the 52nd ballot registered only 412 $\frac{1}{2}$  against 505 $\frac{1}{2}$  he scored last night. Governor Smith still clung close to his original figures and had 320 $\frac{1}{2}$  on the 52nd ballot. There was Ralston talk throughout the hall. A poll of the Oklahoma delegation revealed 9 Ralston votes there; Illinois had 5 and Iowa added a few.

Taggart was busy on the floor and apparently considered the time approaching when he would swing out full blast for Ralston. At this hour, however, several more ballots may be taken before Ralston is really pitched headlong into the fracas. Taggart's game is distinctly a waiting—waiting until McAdoo and Smith have killed each other off completely.

As Ralston began to gain strength, Ed Moore of Ohio became somewhat panicky for fear that part of the Ohio delegation would begin to slip. Ohio has voted for Cox throughout, but Moore stood among the delegates and made a speech to them in which he said:

"The only distinction Ralston would bring to the party would be the doubtful honor of leading it to worse defeat than did Cox."

Tom Taggart sat smiling in his chair.

"I have not asked for this vote; it is entirely spontaneous."

The first attempt at a poll of strength in the Iowa delegation occurred this afternoon when delegates agreed to take off the unit rule for one ballot at least and it was disclosed. The poll showed the following distribution: McAdoo 9, Smith 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Ralston, 4; J. W. Davis 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Walsh 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Underwood 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

The departure of Iowa from the unit rule brought great cheers from the Smith and Ralston delegations, but it was agreed afterward that Iowa would return to the unit rule and vote for McAdoo, which it did on the 52nd ballot.

An appeal to hold the progressive lines for William Gibbs McAdoo and an appreciation of their great support so far was contained in a personal letter from McAdoo addressed to the chairman of each state delegation supporting him today.

FIRST AERIAL MAIL RECEIVED HERE WEDNESDAY

Brainerd received its first aerial mail on Wednesday, under the new cross-continent air service recently installed by the postoffice department.

This mail was posted in New York City at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, said Postmaster Carl Adams, and arrived in Brainerd at 2:30 o'clock the next afternoon, consuming about 30 hours enroute.

now come to the point of starving the whole convention out as to food.

The convention is broke. Delegates from the far west, middle west and south are suffering acutely in their pocketbooks. Each side is determined to stick it out, but the economic pressure is getting to be terrific. Many delegates with friends or bowing acquaintances in New York are inquiring whether these friends would not like to have some guests in order to escape from the expense of putting up at the hotels.

The McAdoo managers held a conference early in the afternoon and decided to continue efforts to break the deadlock by elimination of some of the favorite sons.

McAdoo people are working hard on Virginia and Arkansas but Glass and Robinson managers did not think their candidates were out and continued the fight.

On the 49th ballot Senator Ralston of Indiana began to pick up outside votes.

After Mississippi had shifted to Ralston, giving the Hoosier his first block of votes outside Indiana, his home state, Senator Pat Harrison, head of the delegation, declared that Mississippi was now "home."

"We are going to stick to Ralston to the end," Harrison told the United Press. "He is the most available candidate. We are for him. When we went to Ralston, we went to the home which we have been headed for all along. Many other delegates are going to come along with us before long."

When the 50th ballot was taken the convention was on the way toward equalling or surpassing all previous records of balloting in Democratic conventions. It already had passed every past record with the exception of that made in 1860. That year the convention began in Charleston, S. C. Stephen A. Douglas was the ultimate candidate. Fifty-seven ballots were cast at Charleston, Douglas leading at the end, and then the convention adjourned to Baltimore, where Douglas won on the second ballot.

CONZET IS NAMED STATE FORESTER BY UNANIMOUS CHOICE

(By United Press)

Duluth, Minn., July 3.—Grover M. Conzet, St. Paul, was formally named state forester by the Forestry Board Wednesday. He has been acting state forester since W. T. Cox left the board.

Conzet was the unanimous choice of the board, which split over the dismissal of Cox last winter. Naming of an assistant state forester was postponed for a time.

St. Paul, July 3.—G. M. Conzet was expected to be named state forester late today.

Eight members of the state forestry board are taking their annual outing, being at North Star Camp No. 1, near Wales, Minn. They arrived there yesterday, and will hold a secret meeting today to name Mr. Conzet forester and transact other business.

He has been serving as acting forester since the board dismissed W. T. Cox as forester at a secret meeting last winter in the old capitol. Large timber interests were opposed to the forestry policies of Mr. Cox.

Mr. Conzet is a graduate forester. He has been connected with the state forestry service since 1914.

Several other state officials and forestry experts are in the outing party. Members are guests of Harry Gearhart, forestry board member and Duluth attorney, who led the fight on Mr. Cox. Mr. Gearhart is attorney for a number of large timber companies.

DEMOCRAT MAY BE RUNNING MATE OF BOB LA FOLLETTE

VROOMAN OF ILLINOIS AND WHEELER OF MONTANA ARE FAVORED

CONVENTION PROGRAM WILL NOT CONSIDER CANDIDATE'S PLATFORM

(By United Press)
Cleveland, O. July 3.—A democrat with a progressive record will be Robert M. LaFollette's running mate if the sentiment found among progressive leaders here today is carried out in the convention which opens in municipal auditorium tomorrow.

Carl S. Vrooman of Illinois, former assistant secretary of agriculture, has been receiving some attention in gossip relative to a vice-presidential candidate.

Senator Burton Wheeler of Montana also is being cited by many leaders as possessing assets that would aid the ticket.

The convention program as now arranged will not consider candidate's platforms and the organization plan for the campaign until Saturday.

Three courses are open in the program which the convention may follow. They are:

1. The endorsement and nomination of LaFollette on a national independent ticket, leaving delegates free to go home and support progressives regardless of party label for national and state offices.

2. Placing in the field a third party ticket that will go right down the line, taking in congressional, senatorial and state candidates.

3. Launching a national independent ticket and delaying organization of a third party until several months after the July 4 convention is ended.

Many national committeemen were for the present favoring the first course.

The socialist group, supported by the garment workers, leather goods workers, furriers and upholsterers, will fight for nominations that will go right down the line, it was indicated.

TORNADO DAMAGE IN OHIO REPORTED

RED CROSS GIVES APPALLING FIGURES ON TWO-MINUTE TWISTER

(By United Press)

Lorain, O. July 3.—The Ohio relief committee, charged with raising funds to rebuild communities which were wrecked by Saturday's two-minute twister, today received its first definite damage total from the Red Cross.

The report shows that in addition to taking 94 lives, the storm:

Destroyed 299 homes, 9 churches and 250 business places.

Damaged 539 homes.

Left 1,000 families and 4,500 persons without resources.

The report did not include damage in rural sections.

In their efforts to establish order military guards fired on looters.

A detachment of the 145th Infantry rushed to Avon, near here, to stop looting and military control will be extended there if necessary.

GRAIN, POTATOES AND FLAX FORECAST GOOD

St. Paul, July 3.—All small grains including wheat and rye, are still in a most favorable condition, according to the Minnesota Co-operative Crop Reporting service.

Potatoes and flax, the report continues, are in a similar good condition, though there are some weedy fields of flax.

Early planted potatoes, the report says, are "setting." No rust has appeared.

"Corn," the report says, "while it shows some improvement, is not in a satisfactory condition. Some fields are too wet and weedy. It is too cold for the best development."

Harvesting of hay is under way. The crop has improved, as have pastures.

Livestock is in good condition.

OMAHA TRAIN KILLS THREE MOTORISTS

Mankato, July 3.—Axel Ludwig Liden, St. Paul railroad detective, died of injuries sustained in an automobile accident here Tuesday night.

William L. Bannon, Mankato railroad conductor, was almost instantly killed and Michael Welsh, Mankato traveling salesman, was fatally injured when the car in which the men were riding crashed into a train between Kasota and St. Peter. Welsh and Liden died in a hospital here on Wednesday.

STATE WINS IN TIMBER TAX SUIT

HARR LUMBER COMPANIES ARE TO PAY $19,004.54 DISTRICT COURT RULES

St. Paul, July 3.—Lumber companies controlled by R. L. Horr will pay the state $19,004.54 additional for timber cut on state lands, a decision filed in district court orders.

The decision was filed by Judge Olin B. Lewis last night in the suit of the state against the Horr companies. The state charged that the lumber companies under their permits was not properly sealed and the amount paid for the timber was not large enough.

The defense declared that much of the timber had been cut for flagging on a railroad track laid through the forest in question, and that the fire had burned the stumps of many of the logs so that they could not be accurately scaled.

The suit was argued for three weeks before Judge Lewis last February.

The decision orders payment of the $19,004.54 with interest at 6 per cent from July 10, 1916.

The judgment is not to be executed for 40 days and an appeal to the supreme court is expected to be filed within that time.

ONE MORE BODY ADDED TO THOSE TAKEN FROM MINE

The body of Arthur Earle Walford, one of the victims of the Milford mine disaster, was found July 1st on the bottom level. He was 33 years, 1 month and 6 days old. He died on the eve of his 8th wedding anniversary. Walford was married to Gertrude Vaars, 916 3rd Ave. N. E., Brainerd, and leaves one child, Lois, age 7. The funeral will be held from the Presbyterian church at Ironton at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery of this city.

BUDD PREDICTS TRADE REVIVAL

CONDITIONS DUE TO IMPROVE, HE SAYS—G. N. TRAFFIC IS HEAVY

St. Paul, July 3.—Trade revival during the latter part of the year and prosperous conditions in the northwest were forecast today by Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, on his return from New York.

He blamed hesitancy in business to the political situation. In speaking of the northwest he said that with favorable crop prospects and a probable rise in prices the agricultural situation will be greatly relieved.

Mr. Budd spent a few days in the iron range. He said that more iron has been shipped this year than last year at this time and that last year was a record-making period in ore shipments.

"Business generally is not so heavy as it was a year ago, on account of the tendency to buy for immediate requirements only," he said.

"I look for a revival in trade during the latter half of the year and think it may come reasonably soon as much of the hesitancy of business seems to have been due to the political situation. The northwest especially has prospects for good seasonal activity during the last half of 1924. Weather conditions have been favorable and the crop outlook is better than for several years."

This is especially encouraging in view of the improvement in prices of the last thirty days. To harvest a crop such as that now indicated and to enjoy a reasonably high level of prices would go a long way towards making good times in the northwest.

"The result of operations of the Great Northern for the month of May, 1924, just compiled shows that the gross operating revenues amounted to $8,225,000, a decrease of $1,130,000, compared with May, 1923. Operating economies were effected, however, which resulted in a net railway operating income of $180,000 more than last year, the amount for May, 1924, being $1,062,000, compared with $882,000 in May, 1923. To a large extent these operating economies were possible because the company's equipment, which has been constantly improved since the war, had reached a point where current repairs were lighter."

"Contrary to the general tendency of business, passenger travel on the Great Northern is showing a substantial increase. Through travel, especially, is heavy."

EVERYONE URGED TO CELEBRATE 4TH WITH LEGION POST

NATION'S BIRTHDAY TO BE FITTINGLY OBSERVED FRIDAY

PARADE, ADDRESSES, SPORT CONTESTS, DANCING, FIREWORKS

The American Legion expects every red-blooded citizen of Brainerd and vicinity to exhibit his patriotism on July Fourth by helping to make the Eagle scream at the big celebration to be staged at Lum park.

The Boys' Band of Brainerd under the direction of Hugo Pflock will play at Lum Park for the Fourth of July celebration, morning, afternoon and evening. These boys are exceptionally eager to show their best and all guests for the day are assured of good music.

The day will be packed brim full of good things for young and old from the time the program starts at ten o'clock in the morning, until the "Home Sweet Home" waltz in the wee sma' hours of the morning after. Folks are asked to come early, bring their lunches and be prepared to stay late. Refreshments can be purchased on the grounds in case any do not wish to bring their dinners.

Band concerts, a children's parade, patriotic addresses, a fine program of sports, dancing, tableaux and fireworks are only a part of the good things that are in store for all. Everything will take place at Lum park. The adjoining grounds have been reserved for automobile parking, with space for a thousand cars. No automobiles will be allowed in the park.

The children's parade at Lum park will be one to be long remembered, for its novelty and uniqueness. There are great scenes of activity around town in the building of the various floats. This unique idea of children's floats has started popular fancy and the public is responding nobly.

Do not forget to see the boys' and girls' comedy dress stunt for which there is a prize; you will get a good long laugh. The parade will not be long enough to tire out the little folks and will be of just such length to give the greatest amount of fun and interest. Floats will be on exhibition for the general public at the Lum park pavilion from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m.

A word or so in explanation of the jousting contest as there are a great number of people who might not know just what this stunt will consist of. In the first place it was greatly enjoyed by the nobles and knights of the olden days, when they had these contests from the backs of their horses. In this event at the park there will be four boats numbered 1, 2, 3 and 4, in which there will be four paddlers and one man in the stern of each boat. The man in the stern will have a long pole covered or padded on the end and as the boats pass each other they will try to push or shove each other into the water. It is anticipated that there will be several crews that will participate in this event which is in charge of Fritz Jager. Entries for this contest should be made to him at the park this evening or the first thing in the morning.

There is not a doubt in the world but that this Fourth of July will see the biggest and the best fourth that has been attempted in the vicinity of Brainerd.

CONZET IS NAMED STATE FORESTER BY UNANIMOUS CHOICE

(By United Press)
Duluth, Minn., July 3.—Grover M. Conzet, St. Paul, was formally named state forester by the Forestry Board Wednesday. He has been acting state forester since W. T. Cox left the board.

Conzet was the unanimous choice of the board, which split over the dismissal of Cox last winter. Naming of an assistant state forester was postponed for a time.

St. Paul, July 3.—G. M. Conzet was expected to be named state forester late today.

Eight members of the state forestry board are taking their annual outing, being at North Star Camp No. 1, near Wales, Minn. They arrived there yesterday, and will hold a secret meeting today to name Mr. Conzet forester and transact other business.

He has been serving as acting forester since the board dismissed W. T. Cox as forester at a secret meeting last winter in the old capitol. Large timber interests were opposed to the forestry policies of Mr. Cox.

Mr. Conzet is a graduate forester. He has been connected with the state forestry service since 1914.

Several other state officials and forestry experts are in the outing party. Members are guests of Harry Gearhart, forestry board member and Duluth attorney, who led the fight on Mr. Cox. Mr. Gearhart is attorney for a number of large timber companies.

DEMOCRAT MAY BE RUNNING MATE OF BOB LA FOLLETTE

VROOMAN OF ILLINOIS AND WHEELER OF MONTANA ARE FAVORED

CONVENTION PROGRAM WILL NOT CONSIDER CANDIDATE'S PLATFORM

(By United Press)
Cleveland, O., July 3.—A democrat with a progressive record will be Robert M. LaFollette's running mate if the sentiment found among progressive leaders here today is carried out in the convention which opens in municipal auditorium tomorrow.

Carl S. Vrooman of Illinois, former assistant secretary of agriculture, has been receiving some attention in gossip relative to a vice-presidential candidate.

Senator Burton Wheeler of Montana also is being cited by many leaders as possessing assets that would aid the ticket.

The convention program as now arranged will not consider candidate's platforms and the organization plan for the campaign until Saturday.

Three courses are open in the program which the convention may follow. They are:

1. The endorsement and nomination of LaFollette on a national independent ticket, leaving delegates free to go home and support progressives regardless of party label for national and state offices.

2. Placing in the field a third party ticket that will go right down the line, taking in congressional, senatorial and state candidates.

3. Launching a national independent ticket and delaying organization of a third party until several months after the July 4 convention is ended.

Many national committeemen were for the present favoring the first course.

The socialist group, supported by the garment workers, leather goods workers, furriers and upholsterers, will fight for nominations that will go right down the line, it was indicated.

TORNADO DAMAGE IN OHIO REPORTED

RED CROSS GIVES APPALLING FIGURES ON TWO-MINUTE TWISTER

(By United Press)
Lorain, O., July 3.—The Ohio relief committee, charged with raising funds to rebuild communities which were wrecked by Saturday's two-minute twister, today received its first definite damage total from the Red Cross.

The report shows that in addition to taking 94 lives, the storm: Destroyed 299 homes, 9 churches and 250 business places. Damaged 539 homes.

Left 1,000 families and 4,500 persons without resources.

The report did not include damage in rural sections.

In their efforts to establish order military guards fired on looters.

A detachment of the 145th Infantry rushed to Avon, near here, to stop looting and military control will be extended there if necessary.

GRAIN, POTATOES AND FLAX FORECAST GOOD

St. Paul, July 3.—All small grains including wheat and rye, are still in a most favorable condition, according to the Minnesota Co-operative Crop Reporting service.

Potatoes and flax, the report continues, are in a similar good condition, though there are some weedy fields of flax.

Early planted potatoes, the report says, are "setting." No rust has appeared.

"Corn," the report says, "while it shows some improvement, is not in a satisfactory condition. Some fields are too wet and weedy. It is too cold for the best development.

Harvesting of hay is under way. The crop has improved, as have pastures.

Livestock is in good condition.

OMAHA TRAIN KILLS THREE MOTORISTS

Mankato, July 3.—Axel Ludwig Liden, St. Paul railroad detective, died of injuries sustained in an automobile accident here Tuesday night.

William L. Bannon, Mankato railroad conductor, was almost instantly killed and Michael Welsh, Mankato traveling salesman, was fatally injured when the car in which the men were riding crashed into a train between Kasota and St. Peter. Welsh and Liden died in a hospital here on Wednesday.

STATE WINS IN TIMBER TAX SUIT

HORR LUMBER COMPANIES ARE TO PAY $19,004.54 DISTRICT COURT RULES

St. Paul, July 3.—Lumber companies controlled by R. L. Horr will pay the state $19,004.54 additional for timber cut on state lands, a decision filed in district court orders.

The decision was filed by Judge Olin B. Lewis last night in the suit of the state against the Horr companies. The state charged that timber cut on state lands by the lumber companies under their permits was not properly scaled and the amount paid for the timber was not large enough.

The defense declared that much of the timber had been cut for flagging on a railroad track laid through the forest in question, and that the fire had burned the stumps of many of the logs so that they could not be accurately scaled.

The suit was argued for three weeks before Judge Lewis last February.

The decision orders payment of the $19,004.54 with interest at 6 per cent from July 10, 1916.

The judgment is not to be executed for 40 days and an appeal to the supreme court is expected to be filed within that time.

ONE MORE BODY ADDED TO THOSE TAKEN FROM MINE

The body of Arthur Earle Walford, one of the victims of the Milford mine disaster, was found July 1st on the bottom level. He was 33 years, 1 month and 6 days old. He died on the eve of his 8th wedding anniversary. Walford was married to Gertrude Vaars, 916 3rd Ave. N. E., Brainerd, and leaves one child, Lols, age 7. The funeral will be held from the Presbyterian church at Ironton at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery of this city.

BUDD PREDICTS TRADE REVIVAL

CONDITIONS DUE TO IMPROVE, HE SAYS—G. N. TRAFFIC IS HEAVY

St. Paul, July 3.—Trade revival during the latter part of the year and prosperous conditions in the northwest were forecast today by Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, on his return from New York.

He blamed hesitancy in business to the political situation. In speaking of the northwest he said that with favorable crop prospects and a probable rise in prices the agricultural situation will be greatly relieved.

Mr. Budd spent a few days in the iron range. He said that more iron ore has been shipped this year than last year at this time and that last year was a record-making period in ore shipments.

"Business generally is not so heavy as it was a year ago, on account of the tendency to buy for immediate requirements only," he said.

"I look for a revival in trade during the latter half of the year and think it may come reasonably soon as much of the hesitancy of business seems to have been due to the political situation. The northwest especially has prospects for good seasonal activity during the last half of 1924. Weather conditions have been favorable and the crop outlook is better than for several years.

This is especially encouraging in view of the improvement in prices of the last thirty days. To harvest a crop such as that now indicated and to enjoy a reasonably high level of prices would go a long way towards making good times in the northwest.

"The result of operations of the Great Northern for the month of May, 1924, just compiled shows that the gross operating revenues amounted to $3,225,000, a decrease of $1,130,000, compared with May, 1923. Operating economies were effected, however, which resulted in a net railway operating income of $180,000 more than last year, the amount for May, 1924, being $1,062,000, compared with $882,000 in May, 1923. To a large extent these operating economies were possible because the company's equipment, which has been constantly improved since the war, had reached a point where current repairs were lighter.

"Contrary to the general tendency of business, passenger travel on the Great Northern is showing a substantial increase. Through travel, especially, is heavy."

EVERYONE URGED TO CELEBRATE 4TH WITH LEGION POST

NATION'S BIRTHDAY TO BE FITTINGLY OBSERVED FRIDAY

PARADE, ADDRESSES, SPORT CONTESTS, DANCING, FIREWORKS

The American Legion expects every red-blooded citizen of Brainerd and vicinity to exhibit his patriotism on July Fourth by helping to make the Eagle scream at the big celebration to be staged at Lum park.

The Boys' Band of Brainerd under the direction of Hugo Pflock will play at Lum aPrk for the Fourth of July celebration, morning, afternoon and evening. These boys are exceptionally eager to show their best and all guests for the day are assured of good music.

The day will be packed brim full of good things for young and old from the time the program starts at ten o'clock in the morning, until the "Home Sweet Home" waltz in the wee sma' hours of the morning after. Folks are asked to come early, bring their lunches and be prepared to stay late. Refreshments can be purchased on the grounds in case any do not wish to bring their dinners.

Band concerts, a children's parade, patriotic addresses, a fine program of sports, dancing, tableaux and fireworks are only a part of the good things that are in store for all. Everything will take place at Lum park. The adjoining grounds have been reserved for automobile parking, with space for a thousand cars. No automobiles will be allowed in the park.

The children's parade at Lum park will be one to be long remembered, for its novelty and uniqueness. There are great scenes of activity around town in the building of the various floats. This unique idea of children's floats has started popular fancy and the public is responding nobly.

Do not forget to see the boys' and girls' comedy dress stunt for which there is a prize; you will get a good long laugh. The parade will not be long enough to tire out the little folks and will be of just such length to give the greatest amount of fun and interest. Floats will be on exhibition for the general public at the Lum park pavilion from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m.

A word or so in explanation of the jousting contest as there are a great number of people who might not know just what this stunt will consist of. In the first place it was greatly enjoyed by the nobles and knights of the olden days, when they had these contests from the backs of their horses. In this event at the park there will be four boats numbered 1, 2, 3 and 4, in which there will be four paddlers and one man in the stern of each boat. The man in the stern will have a long pole covered or padded on the end and as the boats pass each other they will try to push or shove each other into the water. It is anticipated that there will be several crews that will participate in this event which is in charge of Fritz Jager. Entries for this contest should be made to him at the park this evening or the first thing in the morning.

There is not a doubt in the world but that this Fourth of July will see the biggest and the best fourth that has been attempted in the vicinity of Brainerd.

Farmers Are Warned of Harm Done by Irrigation Methods in the West

Fort Collins, Colo., July 3.—Belief that the millions of dollars spent on irrigation of arid lands of the West may accomplish no permanent good unless drastic measures are taken to enforce proper methods of distribution of water has been expressed by Dr. Charles A. Lory, president of Colorado Agricultural college.

"In some of the older irrigation districts," Dr. Lory said, "water has drained the natural salts from the soil, profoundly affecting its character. It also has caused an increase in a bacterial flora which takes nitrogen from the air, giving an excess to the ground."

Nitrogen, Dr. Lory explained in proper quantities is beneficial to soil, but applied in excess, may sterilize it.

No satisfactory means of combating this soil sterilization through excessive and improper irrigation has been found, Dr. Lory said. He pointed out that hundreds of thousands of acres of reclaimed lands throughout the West have actually deteriorated from year to year and will eventually become worthless under present care.

"I wish I could have made the trip with Russell," he said. "He always was a nervy cuss."

Much of the Greeley potato region has become unfit for this crop, due to long years of irrigation, Dr. Lory said, and Rocky Ford cantaloupes, famous throughout the country for their quality are being infested with disease, due to over-irrigation, Lory alleged.

Figures presented by Dr. Lory warned farmers that unless they find some means of correcting present irrigation procedure, much of the plains region of Colorado and other western states may within a few generations again be the stamping ground of buffalo, antelope, coyotes and rattle-snakes, making their homes on deserted farm property.

Farmers Are Warned of Harm Done by Irrigation Methods in the West

Fort Collins, Colo., July 3.—Belief that the millions of dollars spent on irrigation of arid lands of the West may accomplish no permanent good unless drastic measures are taken to enforce proper methods of distribution of water has been expressed by Dr. Charles A. Lory, president of Colorado Agricultural college.

"In some of the older irrigation districts," Dr. Lory said, "water has drained the natural salts from the soil, profoundly affecting its character. It also has caused an increase in a bacterial flora which takes nitrogen from the air, giving an excess to the ground."

Nitrogen, Dr. Lory explained in proper quantities is beneficial to soil, but applied in excess, may sterilize it.

No satisfactory means of combating this soil sterilization through excessive and improper irrigation has been found, Dr. Lory said. He pointed out that hundreds of thousands of acres of reclaimed lands throughout the West have actually deteriorated from year to year and will eventually become worthless under present care.

"I wish I could have made the trip with Russell," he said. "He always was a nifty cuss."

Much of the Greeley potato region has become unfit for this crop, due to long years of irrigation, Dr. Lory said, and Rocky Ford cantaloupes, famous throughout the country for their quality are being infested with disease, due to over-irrigation, Lory alleged.

Figures presented by Dr. Lory warned farmers that unless they find some means of correcting present irrigation procedure, much of the plains region of Colorado and other western states may within a few generations again be the stamping ground of buffalo, antelope, coyotes and rattle-snakes, making their homes on deserted farm property.

Essential Frocks for Short Visits

Three Dresses, One Coat, One Hat and Two Pairs of Shoes Necessary.

It is just as awkward, for the short trip, to carry along a too voluminous outfit as it is to omit certain essential frocks—and it's a whole lot more uncomfortable, observes a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. The primary function of the Friday-to-Monday visit is pleasure and, while the carefree male may choose his clothes with comparative abandon, the fair traveler must select with care and discrimination in order that her pleasure may be unalloyed.

The minimum requirements for the typical end-of-the-week visit are an evening dress—either formal or informal, depending on the occasion—a dress or alpaca suit for morning wear, an afternoon frock, a long coat suitable for the journey as well as for cool evenings, and two pairs of slippers, one for evening and one for afternoon wear. A single hat should meet all the emergencies of the short visit. The afternoon dress and coat may be worn en route, leaving only two frocks to be carried in the bag—the evening dress and the morning costume. In the event that the coat is not adapted to formal evening wear, a Spanish shawl, light and occupying very little space, will lend a distinctive touch to the robe de soir.

The guiding principle for the woman who expects to spend her summer week-ends in divers places is conservatism, and she should adhere religiously thereto for the very potent reason that a wardrobe which may strike just the proper note in one community may be severely frowned upon in another. One need not be super-sensitive to blush for the lady who steps forth in all her grandeur only to discover that her hostess and friends have decreed informal dress for that particular occasion. And, conversely, the informally dressed visitor will spend most of her time in seclusion if she journeys to a place where absolute formality rigidly reigns. Indeed, even if the summer visits are to be confined to communities of known tendencies, it is wiser to be only a follower in the ranks of fashion.

Interesting Borderline Dress.

A borderline dress from Worth—a frock which will serve either as an afternoon dress or for the semi-formal summer dance—is interesting. This model shows an interesting variation of the plait, which, incidentally, is one of the outstanding notes in summer fashions. The dress is plaited in sections closely massed and alternating with plain strips of equal width. The plaited section is entirely separate from the foundation, which is narrow, close-fitting and slightly revealed at the sides. A round yoke, ending in a long scarf, is knotted at the right shoulder and makes an attractive neck finish. The waistline is unusually low and is marked by a belt made from petals of suede leather. If you contemplate making this dress at home, it is important to remember that the plaits, although fine, must be deeply laid in order that they remain in place.

For morning wear, whether it be on court or beach, or for the country stroll, a Premet model is equally appropriate. It is a tailored dress of white crepe and limits the plaited note to a box-plaited fullness which appears at the front only. The idea of front fullness and back flatness is emphasized throughout the summer's novelty productions, and the contrast in this frock is most noticeable, the back being so narrow and close hanging that it is split 12 inches to give sufficient freedom.

The coat and the negligee are two essentials without which no traveler dares fare forth. A seven-eighths-length coat exemplifies an idea which is new this season and is particularly useful for the feminine week-end. An alluringly feminine three-quarters-length negligee is of cream crepe and is lined with flash georgette. Marabout borders the neckline, the sleeves, encircles the bottom of the skirt and incidentally forms the flower which conceals the fastening.

Silver Ruling Color.

The extremities of the mode were presented with an unusual opportunity this season and they have not been slow to improve it. The simple silhouette and the general prevalence of boyish styles have placed an additional premium upon shoes, which are more striking than for many summers.

In Paris only the most elaborate shoe is modish for evening wear. A steadily increasing vogue exists for dancing slippers in multi-colored metal brocade, many of which have flashes of red in the brocaded or warp-printed pattern.

Silver slippers are worn with toilettes of all colors—indeed, even in combination with white evening dresses they are favored above the white shoes. Many of the most handsome of these silver models are bordered with tiny rhinestones, the brilliant mock jewels following the outline of the straps and the openings.

Hellstern features evening slippers with flexible crescent-shaped ornaments which follow the outline of the cut of the slipper itself. These ornaments are very elaborate—they are made of sterling silver set with rhinestones, and each little section is joined to the other with a flexible hinge. Most often they are in an antique tone of gold and elaborately chased, but they invariably emphasize the dull, antique finish.

Hellstern's newest color for satin evening slippers is a shade of copper brown. This hue is effectively contrasted by bands of antique gold cloth, which form the border and straps of the shoes. This designer features principally the closed style—he is making a determined effort to get away from the open sandal.

Kid evening slippers of gold and silver usher in ornate decoration in the way of precious gems, rhinestones and brilliants. Heels and toe straps of kid shoes seen on smartly dressed Parisiennes are heavily incrustated with real diamonds and other precious stones or less expensive brilliants. Buckles and bright ornaments flash from the toes of kid slippers, and gold spangles decorate old places on the evening shoes.

For afternoon wear chocolate-colored leather with bronze and antique gold trimmings is most popular. This type of leather is developed in two or three shades, which makes it possible to bring the shoe into harmony with every dress of beige tone. Bronze kid slippers are also being sponsored by the principal Parisian bootmakers.

The bizarre we have always had with us—and it has been as distinctly shunned by the modish woman as it has been eagerly welcomed by her sartorially sensational opposite.

Yet there comes a time in the history of fashion when even its most basic principles must be momentarily discarded, and it is daily becoming more apparent that such a period is rapidly approaching. There has been a sameness about the styles of the last few seasons which reflects no credit upon the couturier. Straight silhouette, plait, cloche, black and white, slender lines, have all become phrases which are equally descriptive of every mode of recent years. Even the undeniable beauty of some of the new frocks cannot overshadow the fact that the current cycle of fashion has reached its senescence. Milady blames her designer and the designer, with some modicum of truth, points to the fact that every new suggestion from the Paris salons has been greeted with indifference by the followers of the mode. At all events, discontent is manifest and, in the realm of fashion, discontent always presages change.

The usual order has been reversed, and the social leaders in Paris and along the Riviera have frankly embraced the bizarre, nor do they make any attempt to conceal the fact. The dressmakers, ever ready to co-operate, have entered into a lively competition in support of this trend, and it is certain that the summer will be noteworthy for radical interpretations of conservative themes.

Brothers, Young Cleveland Bankers, Said To Now Control Five Big Railroads by Buying the Erie

It is rumored that O. P. Van Sweringen and his brother M. J. Van Sweringen, young Cleveland, O., bankers, now control the Erie Railroad Company. If the report is true this move brings one step nearer the completion of plans of Cleveland interests to consolidate into a single railroad system about 13,000 miles of track, including the Nickel Plate, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Hocking Valley, the Erie and the Virginian. The system would have three outlets to the Atlantic Ocean, one at New York, one at Norfolk and the third at Newport News. The Van Sweringens, bankers and real estate magnates, have astonished the financial world by their spectacular exploits in the railroad field.

Peg-Leg, Terror of the Plains

By ANTHONY REIMERT

"PEG-LEG" that? Shore he was the celebrated of the old-time bandits, but that was a long time ago, and now he's in the real estate business and highly respected. Don't know how he got his peg-leg? I'll tell you, stranger.

"This hyar Peg-Leg was the worst trouble the town o' Sunset ever had. Now hyar, now thar, now everywhar. If there was a bunch of steers rustled, Peg-Leg was known to be at the bottom of it. If thar was a bank busted, you could lay yore bottom dollar it was Peg-Leg's game. Crafty and slippery as an eel he was, too. Thar wasn't no catchin' Peg-Leg.

"He had a hoss named Dawn that could travel a hundred miles in a night, and with a hoss like that it took some going to ketch him. Peg-Leg would slip through a sheriff's cordon so thar wouldn't be no sight of his heels for dust. That was Peg-Leg, the Terror of the Plains. And Sunset was mighty proud to have bred him.

"Howsumever, thar come a time when Peg-Leg got too big for his boots. So long as he confined his operations to lifting a few steers, or blowing open a bank or two, nobody wanted to interfere except the ranchers and the bankers. But thar come a time when him and his gang started in rustlin' horses and taking 'em across the border into Mexico. And that got on Sunset's nerves. That kind of outlawed Peg-Leg.

"Sheriff Tyson give him fair warnin'. 'You got to quit the game, Peg,' he told him. And Peg—of course he hadn't a peg-leg then—he laughed. And they parted kinder cold.

"A week later thar was a bunch of horses missing from the Bar-C. Peg-Leg and four or five of his gang had raided them in the night, and was driving them h-l for leather for Mexico.

"Sheriff Tyson was as good as his word. He gathered a posse, and at break of day he was speeding after them.

"It's about fifty miles from here to the border, and the sun was hot, and the chase was a hot one, too. Thar wasn't much hope of ketching up with the band, but toward sunset, when the boundary was only a mile or two away, the posse sighted 'em.

"The sheriff aimed at half a mile,

and by a lucky shot he wounded Peg-Leg's hoss, Dawn.

"Arter that it was nip and tuck to the border. Peg-Leg and his gang was outnumbered too many for 'em to hope to make a stand. And Peg-Leg wouldn't let them hold back for him. 'Ride on, boys,' he said. 'I'll take my chances.'

"That was one h-l of a race, Mister. And as the border neared, it was seen that it was going to be nip and tuck in earnest. Thar wasn't time for the sheriff or any of the posse to draw. Every second meant the difference between gittin' Peg-Leg and losing him.

"And suddenly, just on the very border, Dawn fell. His strength give out, and he couldn't rise. Peg-Leg was thrown over his head just as the sheriff galloped up and threw himself to the ground.

"Peg-Leg's gang was all waiting, lined up along the border. They seized Peg by the shoulders and the sheriff seized him by the feet.

"He's in Mexico," they shouted.

"He ain't," yelled the sheriff.

"Thar was two boundary posts, and it was agreed that Peg-Leg should remain whar he was while they measured off the line. And the line run clean across Peg's ankle.

"All the rest of Peg was in Mexico, but his foot was in the United States.

"He's in Mexico," yells Peg's gang.

"His foot's in the U. S. and I'm goin' to keep it," answers the sheriff.

"What happened then was quick as a flash. Peg sat up, snatched an ax from his saddle, and with one blow had chopped off his foot, leavin' it in the sheriff's hands.

"Thar's my foot, sheriff, and you kin do what you like with it," he grinned from Mexico.

"Nervy? Yes, sir, and that's why we shore respect Peg-Leg, especially now he's given up being a bandit and gone into real estate. You ain't aimin' to buy a lot? Wal, see you again, stranger."

"Who's that?" inquired the stranger of a bystander.

"Him? Oh, he's Jim Sloane. Useter be a bandit. Ben telling you that Peg-Leg story of his? Peg-Leg lost his foot in a railroad smash. Yeah, Jim's the biggest liar in these parts, and that's stretchin' her."

Ill Luck Was Client's

A young lawyer was due to go into court with his first case. For some days he had been nervous about it, and so had the members of his family.

When he sat down to dinner that night his air was far from being triumphant. "Well," finally asked his father, "how did you acquit yourself?"

"Fortunately, I wasn't on trial," responded the young attorney, bitterly. "My client got convicted."

Essential Frocks for Short Visits

Three Dresses, One Coat, One Hat and Two Pairs of Shoes Necessary.

It is just as awkward, for the short trip, to carry along a too voluminous outfit as it is to omit certain essential frocks—and it's a whole lot more uncomfortable, observes a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. The primary function of the Friday-to-Monday visit is pleasure and, while the carefree male may choose his clothes with comparative abandon, the fair traveler must select with care and discrimination in order that her pleasure may be unalloyed.

The minimum requirements for the typical end-of-the-week visit are an evening dress—either formal or informal, depending on the occasion—a dress or alpaca suit for morning wear, an afternoon frock, a long coat suitable for the journey as well as for cool evenings, and two pairs of slippers, one for evening and one for afternoon wear. A single hat should meet all the emergencies of the short visit. The afternoon dress and coat may be worn en route, leaving only two frocks to be carried in the bag—the evening dress and the morning costume. In the event that the coat is not adapted to formal evening wear, a Spanish shawl, light and occupying very little space, will lend a distinctive touch to the robe de soir.

The guiding principle for the woman who expects to spend her summer week-ends in divers places is conservatism, and she should adhere religiously thereto for the very potent reason that a wardrobe which may strike just the proper note in one community may be severely frowned upon in another. One need not be super-sensitive to blush for the lady who steps forth in all her grandeur only to discover that her hostess and friends have decreed informal dress for that particular occasion. And, conversely, the informally dressed visitor will spend most of her time in seclusion if she journeys to a place where absolute formality rigidly reigns. Indeed, even if the summer visits are to be confined to communities of known tendencies, it is wiser to be only a follower in the ranks of fashion.

Interesting Borderline Dress.
A borderline dress from Worth—a frock which will serve either as an afternoon dress or for the semi-formal summer dance—is interesting. This model shows an interesting variation of the plait, which, incidentally, is one of the outstanding notes in summer fashions. The dress is plaited in sections closely massed and alternating with plain strips of equal width. The plaited section is entirely separate from the foundation, which is narrow, close-fitting and slightly revealed at the sides. A round yoke, ending in a long scarf, is knotted at the right shoulder and makes an attractive neck finish. The waistline is unusually low and is marked by a belt made from petals of suede leather. If you contemplate making this dress at home, it is important to remember that the plaits, although fine, must be deeply laid in order that they remain in place.

For morning wear, whether it be on court or beach, or for the country stroll, a Premet model is equally appropriate. It is a tailored dress of white crepe and limits the plaited note to a box-plaited fullness which appears at the front only. The idea of front fullness and back flatness is emphasized throughout the summer's novelty productions, and the contrast in this frock is most noticeable, the back being so narrow and close hanging that it is split 12 inches to give sufficient freedom.

The coat and the negligee are two essentials without which no traveler dares fare forth. A seven-eighths-length coat exemplifies an idea which is new this season and is particularly useful for the feminine week-end. An alluringly feminine three-quarters-length negligee is of cream crepe and is lined with flesh georgette. Marabout borders the neckline, the sleeves, encircles the bottom of the skirt and incidentally forms the flower which conceals the fastening.

Silver Ruling Color.

The extremities of the mode were presented with an unusual opportunity this season and they have not been slow to improve it. The simple silhouette and the general prevalence of boyish styles have placed an additional premium upon shoes, which are more striking than for many summers.

In Paris only the most elaborate shoe is modish for evening wear. A steadily increasing vogue exists for dancing slippers in multi-colored metal brocade, many of which have flashes of red in the brocade or warp-printed pattern.

Slipper slippers are worn with toilettes of all colors—indeed, even in combination with white evening dresses they are favored above the white shoes. Many of the most handsome of these silver models are bordered with tiny rhinestones, the brilliant mock jewels following the outline of the straps and the openings.

Hellstern features evening slippers with flexible crescent-shaped ornaments which follow the outline of the cut of the slipper itself. These ornaments are very elaborate—they are made of sterling silver set with rhinestones, and each little section is joined to the other with a flexible hinge. Most often they are washed in an antique tone of gold and elaborately chased, but they invariably emphasize the dull, antique finish.

Hellstern's newest color for satin evening slippers is a shade of copper brown. This hue is effectively contrasted by bands of antique gold cloth, which form the border and straps of the shoes. This designer features principally the closed style—he is making a determined effort to get away from the open sandal.

Kid evening slippers of gold and silver usher in ornate decoration in the way of precious gems, rhinestones and brilliants. Heels and toe straps of kid shoes seen on smartly dressed Parisiennes are heavily incrustated with real diamonds and other precious stones or less expensive brilliants. Buckles and bright ornaments flash from the toes of kid slippers, and gold spangles decorate odd places on the evening shoes.

For afternoon wear chocolate-colored leather with bronze and antique gold trimmings is most popular. This type of leather is developed in two or three shades, which makes it possible to bring the shoe into harmony with every dress of beige tone. Bronze kid slippers are also being sponsored by the principal Parisian bootmakers.

The bizarre we have always had with us—and it has been as distinctly shunned by the modish woman as it has been eagerly welcomed by her sartorially sensational opposite.

Yet there comes a time in the history of fashion when even its most basic principles must be momentarily discarded, and it is daily becoming more apparent that such a period is rapidly approaching. There has been a sameness about the styles of the last few seasons which reflects no credit upon the couturier. Straight silhouette, plait, cloche, black and white, slender lines, have all become phrases which are equally descriptive of every mode of recent years. Even the undeniable beauty of some of the new frocks cannot overshadow the fact that the current cycle of fashion has reached its senescence. Milady blames her designer and the designer, with some modicum of truth, points to the fact that every new suggestion from the Paris salons has been greeted with indifference by the followers of the mode. At all events, discontent is manifest and, in the realm of fashion, discontent always presages change.

The usual order has been reversed, and the social leaders in Paris and along the Riviera have frankly embraced the bizarre, nor do they make any attempt to conceal the fact. The dressmakers, ever ready to co-operate, have entered into a lively competition in support of this trend, and it is certain that the summer will be noteworthy for radical interpretations of conservative themes.

Brothers, Young Cleveland Bankers, Said To Now Control Five Big Railroads by Buying the Erie

It is rumored that O. P. Van Sweringen and his brother M. J. Van Sweringen, young Cleveland, O., bankers, now control the Erie Railroad Company. If the report is true this move brings one step nearer the completion of plans of Cleveland interests to consolidate into a single railroad system about 13,000 miles of track, including the Nickel Plate, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Hocking Valley, the Erie and the Virginian. The system would have three outlets to the Atlantic Ocean, one at New York, one at Norfolk and the third at Newport News. The Van Sweringens, bankers and real estate magnates, have astonished the financial world by their spectacular exploits in the railroad field.

Peg-Leg, Terror of the Plains

By ANTHONY REIMERT

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"PEG-LEG" that? Shore he was the celebratedst of the old-time bandits, but that was a long time ago, and now he's in the real estate business and highly respected. Don't know how he got his peg-leg? I'll tell you, stranger.

"This hyar Peg-Leg was the worst trouble the town o' Sunset ever had. Now hyar, now thar, now everywhar. If there was a bunch of steers rustled, Peg-Leg was known to be at the bottom of it. If thar was a bank busted, you could lay yore bottom dollar it was Peg-Leg's game. Crafty and slippery as an eel he was, too. Thar wasn't no catchin' Peg-Leg.

"He had a hoss named Dawn that could travel a hundred miles in a night, and with a hoss like that it took some going to ketch him. Peg-Leg would slip through a sheriff's corral so thar wouldn't be no sight of his heels for dust. That was Peg-Leg, the Terror of the Plains. And Sunset was mighty proud to have bred him.

"Howsumever, thar come a time when Peg-Leg got too big for his boots. So long as he confined his operations to lifting a few steers, or blowing open a bank or two, nobody wanted to interfere except the ranchers and the bankers. But thar come a time when him and his gang started in rustlin' horses and taking 'em across the border into Mexico. And that got on Sunset's nerves. That kind of outlawed Peg-Leg.

"Sheriff Tyson give him fair warnin'. 'You got to quit the game, Peg,' he told him. And Peg—of course he hadn't a peg-leg then—he laughed. And they parted kinder cold.

"A week later thar was a bunch of horses missing from the Bar-C. Peg-Leg and four or five of his gang had rustled them in the night, and was driving them h-l for leather for Mexico.

"Sheriff Tyson was as good as his word. He gathered a posse, and at break of day he was speeding after them.

"It's about fifty miles from here to the border, and the sun was hot, and the chase was a hot one, too. Thar wasn't much hope of ketching up with the band, but toward sunset, when the boundary was only a mile or two away, the posse sighted 'em.

"The sheriff aimed at half a mile,

and by a lucky shot he wounded Peg-Leg's hoss, Dawn.

"Arter that it was nip and tuck to the border. Peg-Leg and his gang was outnumbered too many for 'em to hope to make a stand. And Peg-Leg wouldn't let them hold back for him. 'Ride on, boys,' he said. 'I'll take my chances.'

"That was one h-l of a race, Mister. And as the border neared, it was seen that it was going to be nip and tuck in earnest. Thar wasn't time for the sheriff or any of the posse to draw. Every second meant the difference between gittin' Peg-Leg and losing him. 'And suddenly, just on the very border, Dawn fell. His strength give out, and he couldn't rise. Peg-Leg was thrown over his head just as the sheriff galloped up and threw himself to the ground.

"Peg-Leg's gang was all waiting, lined up along the border. They seized Peg by the shoulders and the sheriff seized him by the feet.

"He's in Mexico!" they shouted.

"He ain't," yells the sheriff.

"Thar was two boundary posts, and it was agreed that Peg-Leg should remain whar he was while they measured off the line. And the line run clean across Peg's ankle.

"All the rest of Peg was in Mexico, but his foot was in the United States.

"He's in Mexico!" yells Peg's gang.

"His foot's in the U. S. and I'm goin' to keep it," answers the sheriff.

"What happened then was quick as a flash. Peg sat up, snatched an ax from his saddle, and with one blow had chopped off his foot, leavin' it in the sheriff's hands.

"Thar's my foot, sheriff, and you kin do what you like with it," he grinned from Mexico.

"Nervy? Yes, sir, and that's why we shore respect Peg-Leg, especially now he's given up being a bandit and gone into real estate. You ain't aimin' to buy a lot? Wal, see you again, stranger."

"Who's that?" inquired the stranger of a bystander.

"Him? Oh, he's Jim Sloane. Used to be a bandit. Ben telling you that Peg-Leg story of his? Peg-Leg lost his foot in a railroad smash. Yeah, Jim's the biggest liar in these parts, and that's stretchin' her."

Ill Luck Was Client's

A young lawyer was due to go into court with his first case. For some days he had been nervous about it, and so had the members of his family. When he sat down to dinner that night his air was far from being triumphant. "Well," finally asked his father, "how did you acquit yourself?" "Fortunately, I wasn't on trial," responded the young attorney, bitterly. "My client got convicted."

FARM RAISING GLADIOLI

GLADIOLI have attracted such interest because of the Brainerd flower show, that it is worthy of note to mention that Charles Siemers of Nora Springs, Iowa, has established a farm to raise the flowers near Gun Lake in Aitkin county. Mr. Siemers is widely known for the bulbs which he ships to all parts of the United States and Europe.

He raises 99 varieties of the gladioli. The claim is made that the Aitkin county sandy soil is peculiarly adapted to the raising of these flowers, and as Crow Wing county adjoins Aitkin and soils are similar in districts, the plant should thrive in our county too.

In our county L. P. Hall has been very successful in the raising of gladioli and he has encouraged others to grow them.

ADMINISTRATIONS EXERCISED ECONOMY

THE Republican administrations of Presidents Harding and Coolidge made economy more than a mere phrase. They established remarkable records. Government expenses in 1919, including army disbandment, reached a total of $16,365,000,000. Two years after the war the expenses were moderated to $6,141,000,000. This amount was reduced by the Harding administration in 1922 to $3,195,000,000, and in the last year it was less than $3,000,000,000.

When President Harding took office the bonded debt of this country was $24,000,000,000, ten times the amount at the end of the civil war. Running expenses have been reduced one-half, and $2,269,000,000 was paid on the public debt.

TRAIL SHOULD BE MARKED

THE Tourist Camp trail should be more clearly marked within our city. A south side lady has called to the attention of the Dispatch the difficulties some tourists experience on South Sixth street. She claims many, when entering on this highway, turn to the west on Quince street and then flounder in the sand roads and have difficulty turning around and getting back to Sixth street.

The lady claims that more signs should be on the trail to guide the tourist.

IN the old pre-Volstead days some men made circle tours in getting back to their roof tree. Nowadays a circle tour, as advertised by a railroad, means a side-line round-about trip, happy-go-lucky, to get to a place and then back home again by direct route. The railroads have figured out the psychology of the wanderlust. Travel all over creation, and then when home-sickness strikes you, back home again as quick as you can make it.

Land of Romance

The details of the story of the Acadians have been carefully recorded and cherished by Nova Scotians. Every landmark mentioned by Longfellow in "Evangeline" is being preserved, and everything associated with the Acadians is treasured. At Grand Pre is being created the Acadian Memorial park in the center of the old-time village. The sites of the old well, the priest's house, the church and the long row of willows which still line the street will be included in it.

To suggest the Normandy whence the Acadians came, a small chapel of Norman architecture has already been built. A bronze statue of an idealized Acadian girl, the work of Henri Herbert, a direct descendant of the Grand Pre French, will be placed on a grass plot within the inclosure of the park, says the Detroit News.

Solving the Problem

There has been a good deal of argument about the way the young people carried on in the town square these evenings. Many of the city fathers thought it a public scandal, but they didn't have a big enough appropriation to employ special police.

The village halfwit, however, felt that he could solve the problem. He offered to do it for a can of black paint and two dollars. One of the town fathers was rash enough to furnish these requisites.

Next day the town was electrified to see that all the "No Parking" signs roundabout the square had, by the insertion of an "S" before the second word, become effective warnings to romantic youth.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Homes for Aged

Accounts are not very definite concerning the establishment of the first home exclusively for the aged. In England in early days and in Germany at the end of the Seventeenth century there were hospitals to which the aged and infirm could go. Such a hospital was founded by St. Cross near Winchester, England, in 1136, and another, the Coningsby hospital at Hereford, was founded in 1614.

When President Harding took office the bonded debt of this country was $24,000,000,000, ten times the amount at the end of the civil war. Running expenses have been reduced one-half, and $2,269,000,000 was paid on the public debt.

TRAIL SHOULD BE MARKED

THE Tourist Camp trail should be more clearly marked within our city. A south side lady has called to the attention of the Dispatch the difficulties some tourists experience on South Sixth street. She claims many, when entering on this highway, turn to the west on Quince street and then flounder in the sand roads and have difficulty turning around and getting back to Sixth street.

The lady claims that more signs should be on the trail to guide the tourist.

IN the old pre-Volstead days some men made circle tours in getting back to their roof tree. Nowadays a circle tour, as advertised by a railroad, means a side-line round-about trip, happy-go-lucky, to get to a place and then back home again by direct route. The railroads have figured out the psychology of the wanderlust. Travel all over creation, and then when home-sickness strikes you, back home again as quick as you can make it.

THE vital part of sunshine is the violet ray it carries. And that ray refuses to act when filtered through window glass. To our mind, violet ray is a form of electricity. Sun baths add to vitality. That's why children always want to play in the open and why your child, when denied such a priceless privilege, will lack color like a stalk of celery.

Land of Romance

The details of the story of the Acadians have been carefully recorded and cherished by Nova Scotians. Every landmark mentioned by Longfellow in "Evangeline" is being preserved, and everything associated with the Acadians is treasured. At Grand Pre is being created the Acadian Memorial park in the center of the old-time village. The sites of the old well, the priest's house, the church and the long row of willows which still line the street will be included in it.

To suggest the Normandy whence the Acadians came, a small chapel of Norman architecture has already been built. A bronze statue of an idealized Acadian girl, the work of Henri Herbert, a direct descendant of the Grand Pre French, will be placed on a grass plot within the inclosure of the park, says the Detroit News.

Solving the Problem

There has been a good deal of argument about the way the young people carried on in the town square these evenings. Many of the city fathers thought it a public scandal, but they didn't have a big enough appropriation to employ special police. The village hall, however, felt that he could solve the problem. He offered to do it for a can of black paint and two dollars. One of the town fathers was rash enough to furnish these requisites.

Next day the town was electrified to see that all the "No Parking" signs roundabout the square had, by the insertion of an "S" before the second word, become effective warnings to romantic youth.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Homes for Aged

Accounts are not very definite concerning the establishment of the first home exclusively for the aged. In England in early days and in Germany at the end of the Seventeenth century there were hospitals to which the aged and infirm could go. Such a hospital was founded by St. Cross near Winchester, England, in 1136, and another, the Coningsby hospital at Hereford, was founded in 1614.

Back to Old Life and Old Friends

By CLARA DELAFIELD

(E. 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)
DAN was unhappy. He had been unhappy ever since the day when the news came that Uncle Tim had left him and Kitty fifty thousand dollars.

Fifty thousand! It seemed a miracle to them. For forty years Kitty and he had lived in the little cottage facing the works, where Dan had been foreman of the unskilled laborers, forever shoveling sand into the concrete mixer.

They had just paid for the little white house. "And now I'll retire and be a gentleman," Dan had said jokingly.

Then came the legacy.
It was Kitty who developed the social bee. "We'll show them we're as good as anybody," she said. "We'll sell the cottage and move."

The little white cottage was advertised for sale, and Dan and Kitty moved to Roosevelt street, a fashionable part of the town. But no one came to call on them. Kitty felt it deeply, though she would not admit it. She missed Mrs. Mulligan and Mrs. Flanagan, and the old crowd, and Dan missed Mulligan and Flanagan and the shirtsleeve parties, and the pinochle and the clay pipes. And he wasn't allowed to see his old friends again. And he couldn't smoke the cigars that Kitty bought him.

"Kitty, woman, this life of ease is too hard for me," said Dan one day. "So I've got me a job."

"What sort of a job, Dan?" Kitty looked at him suspiciously.

"A jewel of a job in a swell office the other side of town," said Dan.

"And phwat would you be doing in an office, Dan, you who can't hardly write your name?"

"Whist, woman, you don't understand. 'Tis with an underwriting firm."

Kitty couldn't understand Dan's explanations. Every morning at seven o'clock Dan left the house, clothed in his black coat. Every evening at eight he was back to supper, except sometimes on a Saturday, when he would come back late at night.

"The underwriting job's hard on a man," he explained. "There's a devil of a lot of work on Saturday nights."

"And is that beer I smell on your breath, Dan?" demanded Kitty.

Dan denied it hotly. But his wife's suspicions grew.

"Kitty, there'll be a devil of an underwriting job tomorrow," said Dan on a Friday evening. "Mebbe I won't be back till midnight."

"All right, Dan, I'm glad there's plenty of work," answered Kitty. But her suspicions were thoroughly aroused.

Dan had forgotten that the red sand on his boots had given the game away. Kitty suspected that he had gone back to his old job.

But what was going to keep him till midnight?

She waited till seven o'clock that evening, and then made her way to the works, intending to question the night shift. But when she reached the old cottage she saw to her astonishment that it was brilliantly illuminated. Forgetting her immediate quest of Dan she made her way cautiously thither.

The shades were down, but she found the front door unlocked and opened it. She stole to the parlor door. She stopped aghast at what she saw.

There were Flanagan and Mrs. Flanagan, Mulligan and Mrs. Mulligan, O'Rourke and Mrs. O'Rourke, all seated round a table, playing some game with two packs of well-thumbed cards. And there was Dan in his shirt-sleeves.

A cry escaped her lips, and at the sound the company looked up and saw her.

"So this is how ye underwrite, ye har!" cried Kitty, pouncing upon Dan. "And what about that job of yours? Ye've gone back to the works?"

"Kitty, I couldn't stand for it no longer," whimpered Dan. "Kitty, come back to the old roost. We're all of us wanting you."

"Ah, Kitty, girl, come back. What are youse doing in Roosevelt street?" asked Nora Flanagan.

"Come back to your old friends, Kitty," pleaded Molly Mulligan.

Kitty looked about her. "I guess I've been a fool, Dan," she whimpered.

"Sure we're all that at times!" cried Dan. "Make a place for the Missis. Flanagan, git another bottle of beer. It's your deal, Mulligan!"

Got Rid of Ants

A Florida fruit grower recently cashed in on his knowledge of nature. Ants nesting about the roots of his young citrus trees threatened his crop. Poison solutions were regarded as unsafe, so he collected a number of doodlebugs or ant-lion larvae and turned them loose around the trees. As is their habit, the ant-lions promptly dug themselves funnel-shaped pits and hid at the bottom of them. Ants wandered near the edge of these tiny pits. The banks caved in and carried the struggling ants down in miniature avalanches to be seized by the scimitar-like jaws of these bloodthirsty monsters. When an ant managed to stop before he reached the bottom of the pit, the ant-lion at the bottom would start the avalanche again by hupling sand grains against the victim on the loose slopes.

Hupmobile

Drive Shaft and Pinion. The pinion (that is, the gear) is one piece with the shaft, the whole being drop-forged, 3½ per cent nickel steel, case-hardened and double heat-treated, unusually heavy. Each pinion is checked for uniform hardness by the Rockwell method. The shaft revolves in two chrome nickel steel taper roller bearings. Common construction calls for only a pinion mounted on a tapered shaft—both of ordinary straight carbon steel—with merely case-hardened bearings instead of chrome nickel steel.

MUCH INTEREST IN ELECTRIC TEST LINE

STATE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE STARTS FARM POWER LINE

National interest is being taken in the Red Wing farm electric power test line which has developed into a project of the Minnesota State College of Agriculture.

Twelve consumers of electricity, eight of whom are making daily use of all sorts of electrical appliances for the farm home that are likely to prove profit earners and labor savers, are using the new line. Not only have these eight farm homes been equipped with all sorts of electrical devices but the farmers themselves are using the power to run machinery, pump water, grind feed and to perform various other tasks. The appliances have been installed without charge by three of the country's leading electrical companies, each already having invested $500 for this purpose.

W. J. Gilmore, head of the agricultural engineering department of the Oregon Agricultural College, and M. L. Nichols, chief of the same department in the Alabama College of Agriculture, visited University Farm this week to consult the engineers in charge of the Red Wing project. Accompanying Professor Nichols were E. C. Easter and L. C. LeBron, faculty men on his staff. C. L. Ashmeade of Birmingham, general manager of the Alabama Power and Light company, was also with the party from the south. Another arrival was George W. Kable, extension service man in agricultural engineering with the Oregon college of Agriculture.

The visitors made trips of inspection over the new farm power test line. Prof. E. A. Stewart of University Farm is directing the project for the university with the assistance of other faculty men and an advisory committee of seven headed by J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, and W. C. Coffey, dean of the university department of agriculture.

THIS UNION MAKES NON-STRIKE RECORD

(By United Press)
London, July 3.—The world's non-strike championship is claimed by the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives of England.

This union has a record of twenty-nine years without a strike—and it challenges any other labor union in any country to show an equal or better performance.

T. F. Richards, President of the Union, also claims that it is the only organization in the world that maintains, with its employers, a guarantee fund against strikes.

This fund amounts to $5,000 and is raised by mutual assessments upon the workers and employees. The agreement is that should a strike ever occur the matter will be referred to mutually appointed tribunals to decide which side is at fault, and then forfeit from that side's deposit enough money to compensate the other side for all losses it sustained because of the strike.

Youth May Well Spare Thought for the Old

Courtesy is not only a matter of speech; we may observe the forms of politeness in what we say and yet miss its essence, perhaps because we are not willing to listen to others.

For instance, when old people are speaking the majority of us are frankly impatient. Grandpa perhaps is about to launch an anecdote. It may be as ancient as the hills—it probably is, but that is no reason for our scarcely concealed boredom. If we were truly courteous we would listen with a good grace, as though we really were interested.

But youth, nowadays, seldom stops to consider other people's feelings; and sometimes the old folk—and middle-aged folk, too, for that matter—are hardly allowed even a share in conversation, observes London Answers.

If they do attempt to take part in the talk some one says: "Oh, please spare us that story—it's so ancient." Whereupon aunt or grandie lapses into a hurt silence, while the young people prattle merrily on. More pain than one would imagine is given by remarks of this kind, for by such means those older than ourselves are made to feel their age, to realize that they are "out of things."

Willing or unwilling, the old are thus relegated to the background, and the knowledge that they are superfluous hurts. For, dull as we may think them in some ways, they are not slow to discover when they are not wanted.

The other day, in a boarding house, an old lady of eighty-four, who was all alone, said, rather wistfully: "You see, the old people don't matter."

Can we not make the old feel that they are wanted—can we not try to make old age a time of happy and peaceful waiting for the end which comes so very soon? This would be showing true courtesy and, perhaps, it would not be so very boring after all. For those older than ourselves have a wider store of experience than our own and some of them, at least, can talk very charmingly of what they have seen and the people whom they have met.

Fertilizing Experiments

That grain fertilized by manure produced by living creatures has more nutritive value than grain fertilized by the best known combinations of artificial fertilizers is indicated by experiments recently carried out at an agricultural station in India. Grain from land artificially fertilized was found to be lacking in vitamins as compared with grain grown from soil fertilized with animal manure. The report of the work is published in a recent number of the British Medical Journal. The experiments were conducted with pigeons, fed a diet of natural millet. The birds fed with millet grown from artificially fertilized land tended to develop the characteristic paralysis resulting from vitamin deficiency and they also suffered loss of weight. It was found that the efficacy of grain in promoting nutrition and preventing beriberi bore no relation to the yield an acre, for although land well fertilized by artificial materials gave twice the yield of well-manured soil, the grain from the latter was decidedly the best in the content of vitamins.

Puzzled Oriental

Visiting in Indianapolis recently was a man who had returned from an extended visit in the Orient, the Indianapolis News reports. With him was a Mohammedan servant. Manog's calm face remained expressionless and he had scarcely a word to say until the day of their departure. Then he said: "Master, if I may dare, why do you Christians boast of your great land and send your governors to prison? The little Christian girls expose their bodies to the casual passer-by through thin clothes, and your youths are unforgivably rude. Is this because of too much freedom in your country? Or too much religion?" Manog is still waiting for his answer.

Something Lacking

Verification of this one may be obtained on applying to Park Superintendent C. L. Brock.

A young lady recently arrived from a northern city, and who had never gone in much for zoology, was being shown through the Hermann park menagerie last week. She had never seen a kangaroo, and when she came to the cage containing a number of the species, she stood deeply interested for several minutes.

"But where," she finally asked her escort, "are their shoes? All my life I've been hearing about kangaroo shoes."—Houston Post.

Not a Native Product

The old lady in this colloquy from Punch is not the first to assume a knowledge that she did not have.

"Have you ever tried Swedish massage, Mrs. Brown?" the squirrel's daughter inquired of the gardener's wife, who suffers with chronic rheumatism.

"I have heard say it be very good for rheumatics, miss," was the reply, "but we don't grow it in these parts."—Youth's Companion.

"Thumbs Down" for ex-Kaiser Is Attitude of His Former Officers

(By United Press)
Berlin, July 3.—Kaiser Wilhelm II can never ascend the throne again as far as German officers are concerned.

The "Deutscher Offiziers-Bund," chief organization of the officers of Wilhelm's former army, has taken a vote against him, the United Press has learned. The question was raised whether the Bund favored his return, and less than one-third of the voters were in favor thereof.

The Bund's action is extremely important, as far as the monarchist movement in Germany is concerned. In the first place it shows that the bulk of the officers are breaking away from an earlier conception that, once having given their oath to the Kaiser, they must still hold it.

In the second place, it is significant that dyed-in-the-wool monarchists have switched over to the position that the general populace has long entertained, namely, to a feeling that the Kaiser cannot even be dreamed of as a throne candidate.

The United Press learns that the Bund is actuated principally by two considerations — first, disgust that the Kaiser fled to Holland in the hour of need, even though he was counseled to do so by higher officers; and, second, that he married Princess Hermine so quickly after the real Kaiserin died.

MUCH INTEREST IN ELECTRIC TEST LINE

STATE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE STARTS FARM POWER LINE

National interest is being taken in the Red Wing farm electric power test line which has developed into a project of the Minnesota State College of Agriculture.

Twelve consumers of electricity, eight of whom are making daily use of all sorts of electrical appliances for the farm home that are likely to prove profit earners and labor savers, are using the new line. Not only have these eight farm homes been equipped with all sorts of electrical devices but the farmers themselves are using the power to run machinery, pump water, grind feed and to perform various other tasks. The appliances have been installed without charge by three of the country's leading electrical companies, each already having invested $500 for this purpose.

W. J. Gilmore, head of the agricultural engineering department of the Oregon Agricultural College, and M. L. Nichols, chief of the same department in the Alabama College of Agriculture, visited University Farm this week to consult the engineers in charge of the Red Wing project. Accompanying Professor Nichols were E. C. Easter and L. C. LeBron, faculty men on his staff. C. L. Ashmeade of Birmingham, general manager of the Alabama Power and Light company, was also with the party from the south. Another arrival was George W. Kahle, extension service man in agricultural engineering with the Oregon college of Agriculture.

The visitors made trips of inspection over the new farm power test line. Prof. E. A. Stewart of University Farm is directing the project for the university with the assistance of other faculty men and an advisory committee of seven headed by J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, and W. C. Coffey, dean of the university department of agriculture.

THIS UNION MAKES NON-STRIKE RECORD

(By United Press)
London, July 3.—The world's non-strike championship is claimed by the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives of England.

This union has a record of twenty-nine years without a strike—and it challenges any other labor union in any country to show an equal or better performance.

T. F. Richards, President of the Union, also claims that it is the only organization in the world that maintains, with its employers, a guarantee fund against strikes.

This fund amounts to $5,000 and is raised by mutual assessments upon the workers and employees. The agreement is that should a strike ever occur the matter will be referred to mutually appointed tribunals to decide which side is at fault, and then forfeit from that side's deposit enough money to compensate the other side for all losses sustained because of the strike.

Youth May Well Spare Thought for the Old

Courtesy is not only a matter of speech; we may observe the forms of politeness in what we say and yet miss its essence, perhaps because we are not willing to listen to others.

For instance, when old people are speaking the majority of us are frankly impatient. Grandpa perhaps is about to launch an anecdote. It may be as ancient as the hills—it probably is, but that is no reason for our scarcely concealed boredom. If we were truly courteous we would listen with a good grace, as though we really were interested.

But youth, nowadays, seldom stops to consider other people's feelings; and sometimes the old folk—and middle-aged folk, too, for that matter—are hardly allowed even a share in conversation, observes London Answers.

If they do attempt to take part in the talk some one says: "Oh, please spare us that story—it's so ancient." Whereupon aunt or granie lapses into a hurt silence, while the young people prattle merrily on. More pain than one would imagine is given by remarks of this kind, for by such means those older than ourselves are made to feel their age, to realize that they are "out of things."

Willing or unwilling, the old are thus relegated to the background, and the knowledge that they are superfluous hurts. For, dull as we may think them in some ways, they are not slow to discover when they are not wanted.

"MAKE MINNESOTA BLOSSOM" IS SLOGAN

Of the State Garden Flower Society,
Which is Represented at
Brainerd's Show

MAY FORM AUXILIARY HERE

Many Local Exhibitors Carry Off
Prizes in City's First Peony and
Garden Flower Show

"Make Minnesota Blossom" is the slogan of the Minnesota Garden Flower Society, representative of officers of which are in charge of Brainerd's first Peony and Garden Flower Show, being held in the basement of the H. F. Michael Co.'s store.

This society, which was organized in June, 1904 with only ten members is today one of the strongest associations of its kind in the Northwest and numbers among its 700 members many prominent citizens of the state.

It is the desire of the society to establish auxiliaries throughout the state, and Brainerd has been chosen for one of these branches, provided sufficient enthusiasm can be aroused among local people who are interested in "Making Brainerd Blossom."

Mrs. John Howard Todd, president of the Minnesota Garden Flower Society, and Mrs. H. B. Tillotson, its secretary, both of Minneapolis, are in charge of Brainerd's flower show, and are exerting every effort to establish an auxiliary here, for the purpose of increasing knowledge and interest in the cultivation of all ornamental plants and thus beautifying the city.

The society, which is affiliated with the Minnesota State Horticultural Society and the Wild Flower Preservation Society of America, has many fine achievements to its credit, and has a strong program of activities outlined for the future. It holds a number of floral exhibits each year, the proceeds from which are used largely for charity. It has given every sick ex-service man in the twin city hospitals a pretty bouquet of flowers every week since the year 1917, truly a laudable record.

One of the tasks which the society has taken upon itself is that of educating the public with regard to Minnesota's wild flowers. It is a well known fact that a large majority of the wild flower plants die as soon as the blossoms are picked. In this way many of the most beautiful varieties are fast becoming extinct, among them the finest species of moccasin flowers.

The society is making an effort to acquaint the public with the danger of losing its wild flowers, by putting out posters, requesting that the blossoms be left on the plants instead of being picked in large quantities.

There is no question but that the Flower show is a huge success from all points. The show will be open until this evening. There was some interest taken that it was necessary to hold a meeting for those who had questions to ask and also to start some kind of a society or club for the furtherance of growing flowers in Crow Wing county. This meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Tillotson, secretary of the Minnesota Garden Society, talked on the hardy perennials that are grown in this country. How from a small package of seeds these big blooms are grown. Her talk was very interesting. Mrs. A. J. Wilkus, of the Riverview Gardens, of St. Paul talked on the care of the peonies. Mrs. John Howard Todd, President of the Minnesota Garden Society, talked on and laid emphasis on the organization of a garden club. Their motto is "Make Minnesota Blossom." At the close of her talk a number signed to become members of some club to further the raising of garden flowers. L. P. Hall, of Bay Lake, was selected as chairman to complete this organization. It is expected to make this an organization of Crow Wing county.

The display of peonies at the Michael store basement was very much enjoyed by all who attended. The display of L. P. Hall, whose home is on Bay Lake, was particularly attractive. He had representatives of all the better blooms of iris and peonies.

The oriental poppies grown by A. A. Arnold of Portage Lake, were perhaps as much admired as any in the show. This poppy is a hardy perennial. Much interest was taken in the single and the double seedlings of Mrs. Henriette Fox, whose seeds are from the Gregory park gardens. The University of Minnesota sent in a wonderful collection of beautiful varieties. The Brand Peony Farm of Exibault display did not arrive until after 3 o'clock, but showed some remarkable blooms.

One of the most practicable displays was that of the hardy perennials. These are the flowers of the busy folks. While it was late in the season there was a goodly display of iris; this flower is receiving more attention each year.

A. J. Wilkus added much to the success of the show in his generous assistance to the Peony growers and in his information telling how to get the best results from peonies.

The Martha Bollock was perhaps the most striking flower, this is a new creation and of the better variety. These bulbs cost $10.00.

Mrs. Todd was asked to give out what she thought was 12 of the best and hardy perennials, and she named the following:

Coreopsis, Sweet William (Newport Pink), Shasta Daisy, Gallardia, Pyrethrum, Achillea, Bleeding Heart, Aquilegia, Agrostema, Heuchera, Delphinium. She also stated that no one knows the pleasure of growing flowers until they bring them in to a show and see them take a prize and compare them with others. In the garden clubs that she belongs to they bring in their excess plants and exchange them and buy their seed in quantity lots, thereby lessening the expense of the individual. The University will be glad to send out slides and lectures on these flowers to those who are interested. She stated it would be a splendid plan to post cards to warn tourists and even our own folks not to pick the wild flowers as they do, for when a bloom is snapped off at the base it loses its life and will not bloom again and that we should protect our wild flowers. A good slogan here would be, "Enjoy the flowers but do not pick."

A word or two to future exhibitors. When sending in your blooms for prize it is well to conform to the rules that are laid down for all big shows so that in the future when you have some flowers to enter you will stand an equal chance of winning a prize, that is to pay attention to the number of flowers in the vase and other things that might go towards a disqualification. The following are the prize winners at this show:

For white peony—1st, Mrs. H. S. Durham; 2nd, Mrs. Gus Johnson; 3rd, M. A. Jepson.

For red peony—1st, Stanley Vanek; 2nd, M. A. Jepson; 3rd, Mrs. W. C. Mannis.

For pink peony—1st, Henrietta Fox; 2nd, Mrs. H. S. Durham; 3rd, M. A. Jepson.

Vases of six blooms of various colored peonies—1st, Mrs. Olaf J. Strackner; 2nd, Mrs. W. S. Hall; 3rd, M. A. Jepson.

Iris—1st, A. A. Arnold; 2nd, Mrs. A. D. Darling.

Mr. Hall received an honorable mention as he was not entered in the competition.

Madames A. C. Weber, R. A. Beise and E. O. Webb added much to the pleasure of the show by their serving of tea.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hall of Bay Lake again demonstrated their community spirit by the service they rendered in assisting in making the show possible.

So many favorable comments have been made and so many have expressed the desire that the show be continued. If the local organization is completed such a show will be possible each year.

Bridge Party

Mrs. Minnie Nichols entertained the members of her bridge club from Staples on Wednesday.

Surprise Party

A very pleasant surprise in the form of a kitchen shower was given Mr. and Roy B. Cox by members and friends of the Swedish Baptist church. A fine program of song, reading and speeches were given after which came Miss Mildred Gustafson bringing in a pretty decorated baby carriage filled with nice, useful presents. A delicious lunch was served to 46 people by the ladies. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games and music. Mrs. Cox was formerly Miss Hildegarde Lindholm.

The balance of the estate is to go to the University of Michigan, to be held and used under the direction of the faculty and officers of Dr. Courtney's alma mater, the college of medicine, for carrying on special lines of scientific work in medicine.

Norgard-Kunde

A very pleasing wedding took place this morning at 10 o'clock at the parsonage of the Bethlehem Lutheran church when Esther Kunde of Brainerd became the bride of Clarence Norgard of Woodrow. Miss Lillian Norgard the groom's sister was the bridesmaid and Emil Kunde the bride's brother acted as the best man. Rev. O. S. Winther read the services, the ring ceremony being used.

The bride wore a cocoa color canton crepe gown trimmed in gold lace and carried a bouquet of roses and baby breathe. The bridesmaid wore a tan canton crepe gown, and carried a bouquet of roses and baby breathe.

A Continuous Flower Show

The interest in flowers has been so great that we will set aside one of our large show windows for the balance of the season in the interest of a more beautiful city.

Bring us, at any time, blooms of flowers and they will be displayed in our windows, and you will be given credit for raising them.

This will be a service to our community. Let's make a better Brainerd.

"MAKE MINNESOTA BLOSSOM" IS SLOGAN

Of the State Garden Flower Society,
Which is Represented at
Brainerd's Show

MAY FORM AUXILIARY HERE

Many Local Exhibitors Carry Off
Prizes in City's First Peony and
Garden Flower Show

"Make Minnesota Blossom" is the slogan of the Minnesota Garden Flower Society, representative of flowers of which are in charge of Brainerd's first Peony and Garden Flower Show, being held in the basement of the H. F. Michael Co.'s store. This society, which was organized in June, 1904 with only ten members is today one of the strongest associations of its kind in the Northwest and numbers among its 700 members many prominent citizens of the state.

It is the desire of the society to establish auxiliaries throughout the state, and Brainerd has been chosen for one of these branches, provided sufficient enthusiasm can be aroused among local people who are interested in "Making Brainerd Blossom."

Mrs. John Howard Todd, president of the Minnesota Garden Flower Society, and Mrs. H. B. Tillotson, its secretary, both of Minneapolis, are in charge of Brainerd's flower show, and are exerting every effort to establish an auxiliary here, for the purpose of increasing knowledge and interest in the cultivation of all ornamental plants and thus beautifying the city.

The society, which is affiliated with the Minnesota State Horticultural Society and the Wild Flower Preservation Society of America, has many fine achievements to its credit, and has a strong program of activities outlined for the future. It holds a number of floral exhibits each year, the proceeds from which are used largely for charity. It has given every sick ex-service man in the twin city hospitals a pretty bouquet of flowers every week since the year 1917, truly a laudable record.

One of the tasks which the society has taken upon itself is that of educating the public with regard to Minnesota's wild flowers. It is a well known fact that a large majority of the wild flower plants die as soon as the blossoms are picked. In this way many of the most beautiful varieties are fast becoming extinct, among them the finest species of moccasin flowers.

The society is making an effort to acquaint the public with the danger of losing its wild flowers, by putting out posters, requesting that the blossoms be left on the plants instead of being picked in large quantities.

There is no question but that the Flower show is a huge success from all points. The show will be open until this evening. There was such interest taken that it was necessary to hold a meeting for those who had questions to ask and also to start some kind of a society or club for the furtherance of growing flowers in Crow Wing county. This meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Tillotson, secretary of the Minnesota Garden Society, talked on the hardy perennials that are grown in this country. How from a small package of seeds these big blooms are grown. Her talk was very interesting. Mrs. A. J. Wilkus, of the Riverview Gardens, of St. Paul talked on the care of the peonies. Mrs. John Howard Todd, President of the Minnesota Garden Society, talked on and laid emphasis on the organization of a garden club. Their motto is "Make Minnesota Blossom." At the close of her talk a number signed to become members of some club to further the raising of garden flowers. L. P. Hall, of Bay Lake, was selected as chairman to complete this organization. It is expected to make this an organization of Crow Wing county.

The display of peonies at the Michael store basement was very much enjoyed by all who attended. The display of L. P. Hall, whose home is on Bay lake, was particularly attractive. He had representatives of all the better blooms of iris and peonies.

The oriental poppies grown by A. A. Arnold of Portage lake, were perhaps as much admired as any in the show. This poppy is a hardy perennial. Much interest was taken in the single and the double seedlings of Mrs. Henriette Fox, whose seeds are from the Gregory park gardens. The University of Minnesota sent in a wonderful collection of beautiful varieties. The Brand Peony Farm of Fribault display did not arrive until after 3 o'clock, but showed some remarkable blooms.

One of the most practicable displays was that of the hardy perennials. These are the flowers of the busy folks. While it was late in the season there was a goodly display of iris; this flower is receiving more attention each year.

A. J. Wilkus added much to the success of the show in his generous assistance to the Peony growers and in his information telling how to get the best results from peonies.

The Martha Bollock was perhaps the most striking flower, this is a new creation and of the better variety. These bulbs cost $10.00.

Mrs. Todd was asked to give out what she thought was 12 of the best and hardy perennials, and she named the following:

Coreopsis, Sweet William (Newport Pink), Shasta Daisy, Gallardia, Pyrethrum, Achillea, Bleeding Heart, Aquilegia, Agrostelma, Heuchera, Delphinium. She also stated that no one knows the pleasure of growing flowers until they bring them in to a show and see them take a prize and compare them with others. In the garden clubs that she belongs to they bring in their excess plants and exchange them and buy their seed in quantity lots, thereby lessening the expense of the individual. The University will be glad to send out slides and lectures on these flowers to those who are interested. She stated it would be a splendid plan to post cards to warn tourists and even our own folks not to pick the wild flowers as they do, for when a bloom is snapped off at the base it loses its life and will not bloom again and that we should protect our wild flowers. A good slogan here would be, "Enjoy the flowers but do not pick."

A word or two to future exhibitors. When sending in your blooms for prizes it is well to conform to the rules that are laid down for all big shows so that in the future when you have some flowers to enter you will stand an equal chance of winning a prize, that is to pay attention to the number of flowers in the vase and other things that might go towards a disqualification. The following are the prize winners at this show:

For white peony—1st, Mrs. H. S. Durham; 2nd, Mrs. Gus Johnson; 3rd, M. A. Jepson.

For red peony—1st, Stanley Vanek; 2nd, M. A. Jepson; 3rd, Mrs. W. C. Mannis.

For pink peony—1st, Henrietta Fox; 2nd, Mrs. H. S. Durham; 3rd, M. A. Jepson.

Vases of six blooms of various colored peonies—1st, Mrs. Olaf J. Brackner; 2nd, Mrs. W. S. Hall; 3rd, M. A. Jepson.

Iris—1st, A. A. Arnold; 2nd, Mrs. A. D. Darling.

Mr. Hall received an honorable mention as he was not entered in the competition.

Madames A. C. Weber, R. A. Beise and E. O. Webb added much to the pleasure of the show by their serving of tea.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hall of Bay Lake again demonstrated their community spirit by the service they rendered in assisting in making the show possible.

So many favorable comments have been made and so many have expressed the desire that the show be continued. If the local organization is completed such a show will be possible each year.

Bridge Party

Mrs. Minnie Nichols entertained the members of her bridge club from Staples on Wednesday.

Those present were the Mesdames Greeno, Dewar, Lewis, Garn, Johnson, Zimmer, Nims, Broadway, Andrews, McGivern, Vetch, Jacques, Piper, Downey, Hoenig, Arundel, Costani, Maraz, Tindell, Quimby, Hoenig, Thompson and Norris. An out-of-town guest was a niece of Mrs. Koenig's, from Minneapolis.

Surprise Party

A very pleasant surprise in the form of a kitchen shower was given Mr. and Roy B. Cox by members and friends of the Swedish Baptist church. A fine program of song, reading and speeches were given after which came Miss Mildred Gustafson bringing in a pretty decorated baby carriage filled with nice, useful presents. A delicious lunch was served to 46 people by the ladies. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games and music. Mrs. Cox was formerly Miss Hildegard Lindholm.

FRENCH THOROUGHBRED COMING TO U. S.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 3.—Epinard, peerless French thoroughbred, was scheduled to sail from France tomorrow aboard the Cunarder Berengaria.

Pierre Wertheimer's great horse comes to this country to meet the best of our turf in a series of three match races. It is to be hoped that if they have no other good effect, the races will promote good feeling between horse owners and breeders of the two nations.

With increased facilities for transporting four-footed champions, there is no reason why horse racing should become as international as tennis or golf, on a more limited scale.

Epinard was a real champion last year. It was beaten, but only under crushing imposts. The colt's record was a magnificent one.

This year, Epinar has not done so well, but Wertheimer is confident it will show to advantage on American tracks, which he inspected when he was over here on business last year.

The French colt has not the temperament with which Papyrus, the 1923 Epsom Derby winner, was credited. Less elaborate arrangements have been made aboard the Berengaria for shipping the horse. Everything that can be done to make his voyage more comfortable has been seen to, however.

A special stall has been rigged up amidship, well padded against rolling, so arranged that there will be a minimum of discomfort for his equine highness.

Epinard is a gentle-natured colt, and his owner believes he will endure the trip without protest or ill effect.

The question of which horses are to meet Epinar had not been settled when final arrangements were made for the horse's departure.

Since the United Press last obtained a consensus of trainers, breeders and owners on the subject, no outstanding American colt has stepped his way to unchallenged supremacy of our turf. Some good ones have shown from time to time, only to be beaten in their turn.

Grey Lag, the champion of 1921, and still a great horse last year, was secretly "pointed" for a meeting with Epinar by Sam Mildred. The taciturn trainer would rather win with Grey Lag, whom he considers the greatest horse he ever trained, than with any of the others. Zev disappointed in several races in June.

Bracadale has been doing some good running; Mad Play, too. Black Gold disappointed in a Kentucky trial. Chilhowee won some fast races; so did Hephastos. St. James is reported "coming back." But to none of these can you point and say:

"That's our best horse, Mr. Wertheimer, bring on your Epinar!"

The French colt lost this year to Sir Galahad III, and was beaten in a stake race, but still showed form above that of other European steeds. Wertheimer's horse now is four years old.

Character in the Pencil

"Can character be read from the type of pencil one uses?" asks Popular Mechanics Magazine. According to one expert the answer is yes. Men are usually attracted by the lead and women by the outside coloring, he says. Persons of strong character know just what they want and will not be satisfied with anything else in buying, while weak characters adjust themselves to the first pencil offered them. Conservative people, who are used to certain pencils, demand what they have always had. Cautious folk wish to try out a pencil exclusively before purchasing it. Freak pencils are said to be much in demand.

Golfer Hagen Practicing in England for Open Championship Which He Won for Second Time

Walter Hagen, an American home-bred, won the British open title with a score of 301 for 72 holes, beating E. R. Whitcombe, a British player, by one stroke. Hagen captured the title two years ago and last year lost the championship by only one stroke to Arthur Havers. By his recent victory Hagen has established himself without question as the greatest professional golfer ever developed in America. He has won six major golf titles in the world.

ANGLING GOOD IN LAKE REGION

BRAINERD LAKES BOOSTED BY SPORTS EDITOR OF ST. PAUL NEWS

Under the caption, "Bass and Pike Biting" the sports editor of the St. Paul Daily News has the following good word for fishing possibilities of Brainerd's lake region:

Bass fishing is as good right now as it has been for some time. Pike fishing is also good. The lakes around Brainerd, especially the Gull lake chain, were very popular among anglers last week, according to Paul Maylone, treasurer of the St. Paul chapter of the Izaak Walton league. Pike and bass were biting fine on almost any of the standard lures and on flies and live bait, and good catches were being made on all hands.

Ten Mile lake, near Hackensack, reports fine bass fishing, and this is proved by some fine strings that have been brought in from here during the last few days.

The sport editor of the News believes that there will be a large exodus of citizens from the twin cities to the Brainerd lakes for over-the-Fourth vacations, leaving on Thursday and staying at the lakes until Sunday.

Training for Olympics

Jake Driscoll, Boston track star, is hard at training in order to be ready for the Olympic tryouts. Driscoll showed up well in the special 400-meter race held at University Heights and is confident of winning a place on the American team that will sail for Paris.

Ruth Says Base Running Revival Is Simply Bunk

Babe Ruth is inclined to believe that all the talk about a revival of base running is the bunk.

"The pennant in the two major leagues this year is going to be won by the club that can make base hits in the old pinch rather than stealing second more often than the opposition.

"Speed is a desirable asset in a ball player, but not so much merely to steal bases as to take advantage of the opportunities that are offered in the field as well as on the bases.

"With the lively ball still in use, few ball games are going to be decided by a one-run margin. Stealing second base is a one-run system.

"The pitching in both major leagues must get much tighter before base running becomes a big factor in deciding ball games."

STIRLING-GREB CONTEST BARRED

SMALLPOX QUARANTINE IN MICHIGAN CAUSE OF MAYOR'S ACTION

Michigan City, Ind., July 3.—William P. C. Dall, mayor of Michigan City, today notified the Arena Boxing and Athletic Club, Inc., that the Young Stirling-Harry Greb boxing contest and other matches scheduled for July 4 in the open air arena here, cannot be held until the ban is lifted on the smallpox quarantine in the adjacent state of Michigan, which, he said, will be two weeks at least.

Mayor Dall said the nearest case of smallpox of which he knew was several hundred miles from Michigan City, but deemed the postponement of the fight necessary as a precaution. Promoters of the fight held a hasty conference and announced that the date would be set back until the ban is lifted in Michigan.

Greb, his manager, Mason and party who arrived yesterday afternoon, went back to Chicago last night and will return to Pittsburgh.

Stirling will remain here for several days. The contest may be held in some other city. The exact date will be announced in a few days.

Rocks for a Park

At the registry office in Bath, Maine, there is recorded a deed from the United States to the state of Maine of Sugar Loaf islands at the mouth of the Kennebec. ## FRENCH THOROUGHBRED COMING TO U. S.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 3.—Epinard, peerless French thoroughbred, was scheduled to sail from France tomorrow aboard the Cunarder Berengaria.

Pierre Wertheimer's great horse comes to this country to meet the best of our turf in a series of three match races. It is to be hoped that if they have no other good effect, the races will promote good feeling between horse owners and breeders of the two nations.

With increased facilities for transporting four-footed champions, there is no reason why horse racing should become as international as tennis or golf, on a more limited scale.

Epinard was a real champion last year. It was beaten, but only under crushing imposts. The colt's record was a magnificent one.

This year, Epinard has not done so well, but Wertheimer is confident it will show to advantage on American tracks, which he inspected when he was over here on business last year.

The French colt has not the temperament with which Papyrus, the 1923 Epsom Derby winner, was credited. Less elaborate arrangements have been made aboard the Berengaria for shipping the horse. Everything that can be done to make his voyage more comfortable has been seen to, however.

A special stall has been rigged up amidship, well padded against rolling, so arranged that there will be a minimum of discomfort for his equine highness.

Epinard is a gentle-natured colt, and his owner believes he will endure the trip without protest or ill effect.

The question of which horses are to meet Epinard had not been settled when final arrangements were made for the horse's departure.

Since the United Press last obtained a consensus of trainers, breeders and owners on the subject, no outstanding American colt has stepped his way to unchallenged supremacy of our turf. Some good ones have shown from time to time, only to be beaten in their turn.

Grey Lag, the champion of 1921, and still a great horse last year, was secretly "pointed" for a meeting with Epinard by Sam Mildred. The taciturn trainer would rather win with Grey Lag, whom he considers the greatest horse he ever trained, than with any of the others. Zev disappointed in several races in June.

Bracadale has been doing some good running; Mad Play, too. Black Gold disappointed in a Kentucky trial. Chilhowee won some fast races; so did Hephaltos. St. James is reported "coming back." But to none of these can you point and say:

"That's our best horse, Mr. Wertheimer, bring on your Epinard!"

The French colt lost this year to Sir Galahad III, and was beaten in a stake race, but still showed form above that of other European steeds. Wertheimer's horse now is four years old.

Character in the Pencil

"Can character be read from the type of pencil one uses?" asks Popular Mechanics Magazine. According to one expert the answer is yes. Men are usually attracted by the lead and women by the outside coloring, he says. Persons of strong character know just what they want and will not be satisfied with anything else in buying, while weak characters adjust themselves to the first pencil offered them. Conservative people, who are used to certain pencils, demand what they have always had. Cautious folk wish to try out a pencil exclusively before purchasing it. Freak pencils are said to be much in demand.

Golfer Hagen Practicing in England for Open Championship Which He Won for Second Time

Walter Hagen, an American home-bred, won the British open title with a score of 301 for 72 holes, beating E. R. Whitcombe, a British player, by one stroke. Hagen captured the title two years ago and last year lost the chamionship by only one stroke to Arthur Havers. By his recent victory Hagen has established himself without question as the greatest professional golfer ever developed in America. He has won every major golf title in the world.

ANGLING GOOD IN LAKE REGION

BRAINERD LAKES BOOSTED BY SPORTS EDITOR OF ST. PAUL NEWS

Under the caption, "Bass and Pike Biting" the sports editor of the St. Paul Daily News has the following good word for fishing possibilities of Brainerd's lake region:

Bass fishing is as good right now as it has been for some time. Pike fishing is also good. The lakes around Brainerd, especially the Gull lake chain, were very popular among anglers last week, according to Paul Maylone, treasurer of the St. Paul chapter of the Izaak Walton league. Pike and bass were biting fine on almost any of the standard lures and on flies and live bait, and good catches were being made on all hands.

Ten Mile lake, near Hackensack, reports fine bass fishing, and this is proved by some fine strings that have been brought in from here during the last few days.

The sport editor of the News believes that there will be a large exodus of citizens from the twin cities to the Brainerd lakes for over-the-Fourth vacations, leaving on Thursday and staying at the lakes until Sunday.

Training for Olympics

Jake Driscoll, Boston track star, is hard at training in order to be ready for the Olympic tryouts. Driscoll showed up well in the special 400-meter race held at University Heights and is confident of winning a place on the American team that will sail for Paris.

Ruth Says Base Running Revival Is Simply Bunk

Babe Ruth is inclined to believe that all the talk about a revival of base running is the bunk.

"The pennant in the two major leagues this year is going to be won by the club that can make base hits in the old pinch rather than stealing second more often than the opposition. "Speed is a desirable asset in a ball player, but not so much merely to steal bases as to take advantage of the opportunities that are offered in the field as well as on the bases.

"With the lively ball still in use, few ball games are going to be decided by a one-run margin. Stealing second base is a one-run system.

"The pitching in both major leagues must get much tighter before base running becomes a big factor in deciding ball games."

STIRBLING-GREB CONTEST BARRED

SMALLPOX QUARANTINE IN MICHIGAN CAUSE OF MAYOR'S ACTION

Michigan City, Ind., July 3.—William F. C. Dall, mayor of Michigan City, today notified the Arena Boxing and Athletic Club, Inc., that the Young Stribling-Harry Greb boxing contest and other matches scheduled for July 4 in the open air arena here, cannot be held until the ban is lifted on the smallpox quarantine in the adjacent state of Michigan, which he said, will be two weeks at least.

Mayor Dall said the nearest case of smallpox of which he knew was several hundred miles from Michigan City, but deemed the postponement of the fight necessary as a precaution. Promoters of the fight held a hasty conference and announced that the date would be set back until the ban is lifted in Michigan.

Greb, his manager, Mason and party who arrived yesterday afternoon, went back to Chicago last night and will return to Pittsburgh.

Stribling will remain here for several days. The contest may be held in some other city. The exact date will be announced in a few days.
